I believe the better course is to assume (1) and (3) as the fundamental equations, from them deducing (2); and we thus also get over a difficulty presently referred to, but which did not occur to me when the memoir was written. In fact, starting with the equations x y / = X: Y: Z (which are to give x: y: z = X Y Z), we have in the first instance the equation (1). Moreover, establishing for x , y, z a linear equation ax + by + cz = 0, we have corresponding hereto a curve aX + bY+cZ=0, and the coordinates x, y, z of a point on this curve are proportional to X Y: Z1; that is, substituting for z the value---(ax + by), they c are proportional to rational and integral (homogeneous) functions of (x y), that is, to rational and integral functions of the single parameter x y ; wherefore the curve aX + b Y + cZ = 0 is unicursal; whence the equation (3). The like change may be made in the theory of the rational transformation between two spaces; and it is in this case a more important one. The difficulty is as follows: It is not self-evident that we are at liberty to assume a, + 3a2 + 6a, . (n? + Sn)-2; for imagine that we had a system of (a, a2, a, .) points, such that a, + 4a,...
